

CAMATA AIR MEDICAL TRAINING COURSE LEVEL I

PARTICIPANT INFORMATION

COURSE DATES – March 28 & 29TH, 2018

COURSE LOCATION – Halifax, Nova Scotia

COURSE OBJECTIVES

- Review the aviation physiology that outlines the impact of the flight environment on the human body.
- Discuss the air medical considerations related to the transportation of patients with a wide variety of medical / surgical / traumatic and obstetrical conditions.
- Identify and discuss the aviation and safety considerations associated with patient care in the flight environment.
- Briefly review search and survival considerations for the air medical personnel.
- Review air medical personnel safety and fitness considerations
- Review communications in the air medical environment.
- Discuss infection control in the air medical environment.
- Discuss key components associated with managing air medical programs.

For more information go to the website:

www.frontlinemedical.ca

or

Contact D. Chickness, Course Director at: frontlinemedicaltraining@gmail.com